

TOP LESSONS FROM THE FIRST NATIONS FOUNDATION

"Financial abuse can include controlling a partner or family members money, stopping a partner or family member from earning their own money and limiting access to money. This can also include withholding money, controlling the household spending, or refusing to include you in financial decisions. ."

Larisha Jerome, Community Engagement and Project Officer